Robinson Akporobaro: Robinson holds a Bachelor's Degree in Finance from University of Lagos Nigeria, with a minor in Economics. Prior to the MFIN program, he worked as a financial analyst for Federal Bank of Agriculture, Nigeria, where he performed internal credit review, cash-flow analysis and trend analysis. This experience in the banking sector helped Robinson realize how much the quantitative part of financial management needs solid programming skills. Robinson is actively seeking to acquire programming skills such as R, MySQL and Python. His immediate goal is to work as a financial risk manager and adopt advanced techniques to mitigate corporate risk.

Taylor Bee: Taylor is from Fort Collins, CO. She recently completed her degree in Finance at Iowa State University where she played division I soccer. Taking advantage of the Covid extension, Taylor came home to Fort Collins and Colorado State University, and is part of the Girl's Soccer Team. She is hoping this exciting and challenging adventure into earning her Masters Degree in Finance will help her narrow down her career choices.
